

moments to ~~show~~ ^{show} our strength for a cause for celebration: and any celebration as an act of

But that future was so distant that we used any event as moments were celebrated as portents of ~~the~~ future change.

momentary victories, like the release of the twelve on violence and the expanding powers of the police-state.

but we had not been destroyed--despite growing white

The movement was moving on many fronts. We were attacked the support of thousands of formerly quiet Black citizens.

was expanding rapidly into new communities and receiving the success that we did understand was that the movement

At no place could the movement really show success: but