

The Chicago men found support from other Methodists, Presbyterians, and Baptists. But the risk of arrest and violence was always present.

Not the more complicated business of police action and the matter of turning away Negroes from the House of God:

to admit the visitors. We wanted the church to have to face and at the ~~one~~ single Unitarian church: other churches refused visitors were received at Episcopal and Roman Catholic churches and denominations were visited each Sunday. Integrated churches were not visited every week: but some churches of many police on hand that arrest was almost certain. These did not want many arrests. We knew which churches had so
