

1EKI 20.01

end of 1964 there were continuing battles between the various black communities and the of SNCC but with their own confidence and following created in the midst of battle. At the leaders, now affirming all the slogans of Freedom, and the new leaders developed at the call the end of 1964 there was now struggle within the black community between the traditional and bring themselves more wealth, power, and prestige if possible, but chiefly power. By opportunities they had been waiting for to reassert their leadership, to save their position, Movement that had fought and won this victory, the traditional leaders seized the nature of the struggle. With no thanks and scarcely concealed contempt for SNCC and the 1964 the traditional leaders of the old black community were quite aware of the two-fold

The fact was recognized, secure; the meaning was still to be defined. By the end of

Handwritten notes:
 1/21
 4/21